

Allah Is Not Obligated

Original title: Allah n'est pas obligé

Birahima is a 10-year-old orphan from Guinea. With the help of four dictionaries, and a lot of irony, he tells the story of how he was drawn into a tribal war when he tried to join his aunt in Liberia. Yacouba, a scoundrel who goes with him, convinces Birahima to become a child soldier, while establishing himself as a gri-gri man among the combatants. Plunged into chaos, torn between the many enemy factions, Birahima grows up fast and learns to distrust the stories he is told.
