

Trizombie

Original title: Trizombie

Four friends with Down's syndrome live together in a residential group. When one of them gets the opportunity to move into supported independent living, she seizes this chance, even though it strains her friendship with the others. Shortly after, when the zombie apocalypse breaks out, the three remaining friends gradually realise that they are immune to this virus. They are saved by The Butcher, a person with Down's syndrome who has a strong passion for horror films and extensive knowledge about zombies and how to survive them. Together, they decide to venture into the dangerous outside world in search of their friend in need, and a solution to the zombie virus.
